

APPROPRIATELY EDGY

Bill Donohue is often asked by the celebrity page of the New York Post, "Page Six," to offer an edgy comment on some current attack on the Catholic Church. In September, he was asked to comment on the upcoming book, 101 Places To Have Sex Before You Die; one of the recommended places is the confessional.

Here was Bill's response: "The kind of people who would have sex in the confessional would also have sex in the graveyard. And I don't mean with each other."

The local ABC affiliate news show, "Eyewitness News," liked Bill's quip so much they sent a camera crew to interview him about his remark for the evening news.