

Catholic group calls for Tlaib to be reprimanded after sharing 'filthy' National Day of Prayer message

Bill In The News (Washington Examiner):

Rep. Rashida Tlaib is facing blowback from a Catholic group after sharing a profane tweet about the National Day of Prayer.

The president of the Catholic League For Religious and Civil Rights, Dr. William A. Donohue, issued a letter on Monday condemning the Michigan Democrat for retweeting a vulgar message from Parkland, Florida, gun control activist David Hogg, which read "F— a National day of prayer."
