

CNN SMEARS THE POPE

Last Saturday, CNN aired a documentary on Pope Benedict XVI that caught the eye of Catholic League president Bill Donohue:

CNN picked up where the New York Times left off last spring when it sought to blame the pope for the sexual abuse scandal. Though it did not succeed in doing so, the well-crafted series of conjectures reveals what's going on: Joseph Ratzinger is a man long hated by Church dissidents, and this is their happy hour.

I cannot do justice to challenging all the points made in the program in a news release, so to read my rejoinder, click here.

Contact Scott Bronstein, co-producer of the documentary: scott.bronstein@turner.com