

DWI FILM NIXED

If you're caught driving while intoxicated, the police summon you with a DWI offense. Typically, offenders are required to attend education program. Some Catholics in New York who got nailed with a DWI were astonished to view a short film on the subject that included a priest sexually molesting a young altar boy. What this had to do with combating DWI offenses was as much a mystery to us as it was them.

When we registered our complaint, we were delighted to know that the person who handled the issue was a fan of the Catholic League. The movie has been withdrawn, but it is amazing that it was ever shown.
