CHILDREN OF TERROR

Inge Auerbacher and Bozena Urbanowicz Gilbride

This book tells the unforgettable stories of two young girls, one a Catholic from Poland, the other a Jew from Germany, who are caught in a web of terror during World War II.

Bozena Urbanowicz Gilbride is a member of the Catholic League and is very active in Polish-Catholic issues.

Bill Donohue said of the book: "Most Holocaust survivors are no longer with us, and that is why this volume is so important. It is a moving testimony by two courageous women, one Catholic and one Jewish, about their youthful ordeals at the hands of the Nazis. They succeed in ways even the most astute historian cannot—they literally capture history and bring it to life. It is sure to touch all those who read it."

It is available at Amazon.com for $12.95.

THESE STONE WALLS

Father Gordon J. MacRae is no stranger to the members of the Catholic League, but his blog site may need some introduction. MacRae, who convincingly maintains his innocence for a crime he did not commit, writes from a prison in Concord, New Hampshire. His blog can be found at www.TheseStoneWalls.com; pointedly, he subtitles his blog, "Musings from Prison of a Priest Falsely Accused."

MacRae provides the reader with a wealth of information about Catholic issues, as well as material surrounding his ordeal. Bill Donohue continues to correspond with him and encourages league members to visit his site.
