

HIBERNIANS ASKED TO JOIN GUINNESS BOYCOTT

Bill Donohue comments on the latest developments in the Catholic League's boycott of Guinness:

Today we are contacting over 300 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians (AOH) Divisions asking them to join us in our boycott of Guinness. Overall, we have collected 845 email addresses from 287 AOH websites. We expect that many, if not most, will endorse our campaign.

Guinness is not going to get away with disrespecting Catholics, if only for one reason: we are not going away. By pulling the plug on its sponsorship of the St. Patrick's Day Parade in New York City the night before the march, the corporate bullies at Guinness showed their bigotry and their cowardice. Not until they reinstate their sponsorship of the parade will we call off the boycott.

Contact Alix Dunn at Diageo, parent company of Guinness: Alix.Dunn@diageo.com