

MEDIA STILL HYPING POPE-TRUMP PHOTO

Catholic League president Bill Donohue comments on the way the media are playing a photo of President Trump and Pope Francis:

In a classic example of Groupthink, the media and late night talk-show hosts are fixated on one photo of the pope and the president; the former looks dour and the latter is smiling. So what?

And just in case you missed it, here is a photo of Pope Francis standing with President Obama and Secretary of State John Kerry.

What do these photos mean? Nothing—nothing at all—unless you work for the mainstream media or need script for a monologue.
