

MEDIA VOYEUR

The Archdiocese of Philadelphia has a very informative website, blessme.org, that addresses many topics. For example, there is a Question & Answer section on issues many Catholics are confused about, including questions regarding sexual morality. Unfortunately, Philadelphia Magazine thought it would be a cute exercise to parody this section by offering up some crude commentary.

We won't get into details, but suffice it to say that some of the questions were intimate in nature. That, after all, is to be expected in a section like this. Yet for the writer, Sally Hingston, this was an opportunity for ridicule. That is why she wrote how the site "might wind up on the hit-lists of perverts seeking kinky-self pleasuring tips."

You can write to this media voyeur at Philadelphia Magazine, 1818 Market Street, 36th floor, Philadelphia, PA 19103. We did.