

Perspective: In L.A. Dodgers controversy, 'Sisters of Perpetual Indulgence' LGBTQ group wins at the expense of people of faith

Bill in the News (Deseret News): The Sisters of Perpetual Indulgence are not nuns. And regardless of what good they may have done over the past 30 years, visiting hospices and "lecturing ... about the risks of unsafe sex," the most extreme of their attention-getting antics are rightly decried as blasphemy. Bill Donohue of The Catholic League released a list of the group's most offensive stunts since its founding in 1979. READ MORE HERE
