

Pope Speaks the Truth

What His Holiness said at the White House on Wednesday was the truth, and nothing but the truth: "Any tendency to treat religion as a private matter must be resisted."

We hope all those who would like to privatize, if not censor, religion are listening. What the pope said will surely embolden millions of Catholics to take a more aggressive public role exercising their religious liberty rights. We also hope that the ACLU, the ADL and Americans United for Separation of Church and State get the message.
