

POTTERY BARN RESPONDS

In last month's Catalyst, we reported that "Pottery Barn" published a catalog with a miniature drawing of a nude woman posed in a Christ-like crucified position hanging over a bed. The explanation that Williams-Sonoma, the parent company, offered satisfies our concerns. The executive vice president, Pat Connolly, is a good Catholic who simply did not catch the offensive depiction and regrets its publication.