

Religious Profiling of Catholics

Hannity went to parochial school... Journalists who cover TV shows almost never bother to mention where the star of the show went to elementary school. An exception was made today by Alessandra Stanley in the New York Times. Writing about Sean Hannity's new Sunday-night show on Fox News, and his interview with some of the gals from Nevada's famous Bunny Ranch, Stanley said that "While Mr. Hannity, who attended Roman Catholic school, interviews scantily clad prostitutes...."

So who ever said that liberals abhor religious profiling? When it comes to Catholicism and sex, the nexus is just too irresistible not to notice.