

Survey Reveals Employees of Catholic Church Divided on Clergy Abuse and Reforms

Bill In The News (nbcmiami.com):

Bill Donohue, president of the Catholic League, a nonprofit that defends the church in the media, said the NBC survey results show employees are falsely conflating old headlines with modern behavior.

"This is a result of the poisoning of the public mind," Donohue said. "Most of the bad guys, most of the priests who molested, are either dead or they're out of ministry. That's not an opinion, that's a fact." READ MORE HERE
