

UNCHRISTIAN-LIKE BEHAVIOR

The Parent Educator is a Christian Home Schooling publication from California. On the surface, at least, it is hospitable to Catholics and Protestants alike. How, then, to explain the editorial decision to publish a strikingly anti-Catholic letter in a recent edition of the publication?

The letter charges that “Romanism...is under God’s curse” and that Catholicism is a “false gospel” that has led “millions away from the gates of heaven to the pit of hell.”

The league sent a letter of protest and was told that the volume of complaints was so high that no more letters could be published. We were only too happy to hear that.
