

Update On “The View”

Looks like our New York Times op-ed page ad of June 12 worked. That was the ad which questioned, “What’s Happened to Barbara Walters?” The ad was written to pressure Walters, co-owner of “The View,” to get her panelists in line: we recounted 15 occasions where anti-Catholic remarks were voiced on the program over the previous nine months.

Ever since our ad appeared, the gals have been good. We expect them to keep it that way.
