

WERE WE RESPONSIBLE?

Last fall we blasted comedian Kathy Griffin for the obscene and bigoted remark she made at the Emmys. And as everyone knows, we went after the ABC show “The View,” big time last year. We mention this because Griffin was recently told that her invitation to appear on “The View” was cancelled. The reason given was considered tongue-in-check by everyone: the show’s producer said it was because Griffin was “too mean” to Barbara Walters the last time she was on the show.

Makes us wonder: Were we responsible for nixing her? We hope so.
